

A question for the future

The question shown below is considered to be an essential starting point for your consideration of the development of the school and the school library.

Please reflect on the challenges facing your school / school library.

During the course your thoughts and reflections on this question will be very important. They will form part of your interaction with other participants in the Café-seminar session and will provide a basis for more informal discussion.

How can your school library / learning centre support students to develop their skills and abilities in searching, developing and disseminating information and knowledge so that they become active producers of knowledge and not just consumers of information?
